Rules of Racing

1. Good sportsmanship is expected at all times.
2. The ability to accomplish effective and safe passing is an important aspect of successful racing.

The following are the basic responsibilities of scullers and crews in these situations:

(i) The boat overtaking (Passer) has the right of way to pass (on the side of its choice) if a safe pass can be accomplished. Generally this will be the shortest line that gives an advantage. If passing cannot be accomplished safely, the Passer must be prudent and delay the act of passing until the pass can be accomplished without incident. The wise sculler or crew knows that more time can be lost by pressing a situation rather than slowing down and waiting for the right moment to pass.

Communicate effectively during racing with other crews on the water.

(ii) The boat being overtaken must yield and give suitable room to the Passer (on the side chosen by the Passer) if a safe pass can be accomplished. Failure to yield to the Passer is a serious infraction of competitive conduct. Crews and scullers must be alert to possible upcoming passing attempts and promptly yield when there is adequate room and time. Crews must be prepared to miss a few strokes to allow the Passer to pass safely and without interference. Communicate effectively during racing.

(iii) Respect for the safety of other competitors and their equipment must be observed at all times.

In the event a crew does not yield to a Passer, they will be assessed a penalty of 30 seconds.

3. Shortcutting on the wrong side of buoys will incur a 60 second penalty.

4. Have fun and safe rowing!
